URGENT MOTION OF COMMITTEES AND GOVERNMENT PARTIES TO COMPEL PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS FROM ERS BONDHOLDERS

To the Honorable United States Magistrate Judge Judith G. Dein:

The Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors (the “Creditors’ Committee”),<sup>2</sup> the Official Committee of Retired Employees of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico (the “Retiree Committee” and, together with the Creditors’ Committee, the “Committees”), the Financial Oversight and Management Board for Puerto Rico (the “Oversight Board”), and the Special Claims Committee of the Financial Oversight and Management Board for Puerto Rico (the “SCC”) (together with the FOMB, the “Government Parties”) (the Committees and Government Parties, collectively, “Movants”) respectfully submit this urgent motion (the “Urgent Motion”) to compel certain groups of ERS bondholders represented by Jones Day and White & Case (collectively, the “Bondholders”)<sup>3</sup> to produce certain documents related to Bondholders’ purchase or acquisition of municipal or governmental securities relevant at least to their notice defense.

INTRODUCTION

1. In these Actions, the Bondholders claim that even if the ERS Bonds are declared ultra vires and invalid, the ERS Bonds remain enforceable because the Bondholders were purchasers for value without notice of that alleged defect (viz. the illegal issuance of ERS Bonds). See ECF No. 688 in Case No. 17-bk-03566 at 33. As the Bondholders intend to claim they were not on notice the ERS Bonds were issued ultra vires and, therefore, the ERS Bonds remain enforceable, Movants are entitled to discovery into what the Bondholders knew or believed at the time they purchased or acquired the ERS Bonds, including but not limited to investment committee memoranda (or similar documents) and supporting materials prepared at or around the time of acquisition that may be probative of what the Bondholders knew or believed at that time (Request for Production Nos. 19 and 21).

2. The Bondholders agree this discovery is relevant to the notice issues they raised, but say they will only produce this discovery with a catch: they will only produce documents from due-diligence or working files that discuss the validity (or invalidity) of the ERS bonds. Anything else, according to the Bondholders, would not be “relevant” to ultra vires issues. The Bondholders’ proposed limitation is improper, and the Court should overrule it.

3. The Bondholders’ reliance on a notice defense requires examination of what they knew or believed at the time they purchased or acquired ERS Bonds—including, critically, documents that show the Bondholders failed to analyze the validity of the ERS Bonds. Even the absence of a discussion about the validity or legality of ERS Bonds may show the Bondholders did not analyze the legality of the ERS Bonds when they purchased them, demonstrating the Bondholders’ failure to undertake the necessary analysis of the bonds’ legality at the time of their purchases.

4. The Bondholders cannot have it both ways, asserting a notice defense on the one hand while denying Movants discovery into the unfiltered account of what they knew or believed when they purchased or acquired ERS Bonds on the other. As such, after resolving the bulk of the issues Movants raised with the Bondholders’ responses to their Requests for Production through the conference process, Movants have no choice but to seek relief from the Court on this narrow issue. The Court should overrule the Bondholders’ proposed limitation and compel the production of documents responsive to Request for Production Nos. 19 and 21.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

5. The United States District Court for the District of Puerto Rico has subject matter jurisdiction over this matter pursuant to PROMESA § 306(a).

6. Venue is proper pursuant to PROMESA § 307(a).

BACKGROUND

A. Procedural History

7. This Urgent Motion arises out of discovery disputes in connection with two related matters within the ERS Title III case. The first concerns challenges to the enforceability of the

ERS bonds on grounds that the ERS acted beyond its authority by issuing them (the “Ultra Vires Issue”).<sup>4</sup> The second concerns issues related to the scope of Bondholders’ liens over ERS property (the “Lien Scope Issues”) (together with the Ultra Vires Issues, the “Actions”).<sup>5</sup>

8. Among other things, the Ultra Vires Issue concerns whether the ERS’s authority to seek loans through the “direct placements of debts” includes the authority to issue public bonds. Movants have argued it does not because public bonds are not encompassed in the definition of “direct placement” (or a “private placement”) of debt. See, e.g., 17-bk-3566 ECF 381, ¶¶ 31–36. Bondholders claim the opposite. See, e.g., 17-bk-3566 ECF 688, ¶¶ 20–27; 17-ap-219 ECF 50, 16–20. Bondholders also claim that, even if the ERS Bonds were issued ultra vires and declared invalid, the ERS Bonds are nevertheless enforceable because they were purchasers for value without notice of that alleged defect (viz. the illegal issuance of ERS Bonds). See ECF No. 688 in Case No. 17-bk-03566 at 33.

9. On July 24, 2019, the Court entered the Order Regarding Stay Period and Mandatory Mediation [17-bk-3283 ECF 8244] (the “Stay Order”) staying certain adversary proceedings and contested matters and ordering mandatory mediation.

10. On October 24, 2019, the Court entered the Order Granting Urgent Joint Motion to Modify Order Regarding Stay and Mandatory Mediation with Respect to Certain Issues Raised

<sup>4</sup> The Ultra Vires Issue was raised in the Unsecured Creditors’ Committee’s objections to claims of ERS bondholders [17-bk-3283, ECF 5580 and 5586] (the “Creditors’ Committee Objections”); the Retiree Committee’s objection to claims of ERS bondholders [17-bk-3283, ECF 6482] (the “Retiree Committee Objection”); and in count one of the complaints in each of the ERS clawback adversary proceedings [19-ap-355, 19-ap-356, 19-ap-357, 19-ap-358, 19-ap-359, 19-ap-360 and 19-ap-361].

<sup>5</sup> The Lien Scope Issues were raised in adversary proceedings 19-ap-366 and 19-ap-367; Parts III, IV, V and ¶ 94–97 of Part VI of the Retiree Committee’s Objection; and Part I.A.i. of the Oversight Board’s objection to claims of ERS bondholders [17-bk-3283, ECF 7075] (the “Oversight Board Objection”).

in Certain Contested Matters and Adversary Proceedings Related to the Bonds Issued by the Employees Retirement System of the Government of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico [17-bk-3283 ECF 8962] (the “ERS Scheduling Order”) un-staying certain contested matters and adversary proceedings to allow for resolution of the Ultra Vires Issue and Lien Scope Issues, and setting the discovery and briefing schedule with respect to the Ultra Vires Issue and Lien Scope Issues.

B. Movants’ Requests for Production to the Bondholders

11. On November 1, 2019, pursuant to the ERS Scheduling Order, the Government Parties and Committees served, among other things, requests for production (the “Requests for Production”) on Bondholders. Exhibit 1 [Requests for Production]. As is relevant here, Movants requested the following discovery from the Bondholders:

19. All Documents relating to each Your purchase or sale of, or decision to hold ERS Bonds, including all documents reviewed, considered, or relied on by You or any of Your advisors when making purchases, sales, or decisions to hold.

21. All Documents relating to the ERS Bonds or ERS Bond-related information known to or in the possession of You or any of Your advisors at the time of any evaluation or analysis with respect to the ERS Bonds (including, without limitation, their validity), or any decision to purchase, sell or hold any ERS Bonds (Exhibit 1 at 11).

12. On November 22, 2019, pursuant to the ERS Scheduling Order, Bondholders served their responses and objections to the Requests for Production. Exhibit 2 [Bondholder Responses to Requests for Production].

13. In response to Request Nos. 19 and 21, the Bondholders objected on the grounds various terms—such as “advisors” and “reviewed” and “ERS-Bond related information”—were vague and ambiguous, but agreed to produce “due diligence files” previously produced in litigation concerning their motion to lift the automatic stay. Exhibit 2 at 14-16.

C. The Current Discovery Dispute

14. On December 11, 2019, the Oversight Board raised multiple concerns with the Bondholders' discovery responses by letter, including with respect to Request for Production Nos. 19 and 21. Exhibit 3 [12/11/19 Letter, W. Dalsen Letter to D. Fox]. The Bondholders did not respond in writing to the concerns raised in the letter, but agreed to confer.

15. On December 18, 2019, the parties held a 3-hour teleconference concerning various discovery matters, including Bondholders' responses and objections to Request for Production Nos. 19 and 21. During that conference, the Bondholders agreed they would produce documents in response to Request Nos. 19 and 21—but only if such documents “touch upon ultra vires issues.”

16. On December 31, 2019, the parties held a teleconference concerning Bondholders' discovery requests to the Oversight Board. At the conclusion of that conference, the Oversight Board requested a further conference with the Bondholders concerning the Bondholders' objections and responses to attempt to avoid motion practice.

17. On January 2, 2020, the parties held a 1-hour teleconference concerning the Oversight Board's discovery requests to the Bondholders and the Fiscal Agent. As to Request for Production Nos. 19 and 21, the Bondholders stated that what they knew at the time of purchase would be relevant to notice issues they intended to raise—but the Bondholders refused to withdraw their proposed limitation to produce only such documents that “touch upon ultra vires issues.”

18. Also on January 2, 2020, Movants indicated they would seek to compel the production of documents responsive to Request for Production Nos. 19 and 21 unless the Bondholders removed their proposed limitation. Exhibit 4 [1/2/20 Letter from W. Dalsen to M. Papez].

19. On January 3, 2020, the Bondholders stated they now intend to stand on their prior objections that Request for Production Nos. 19 and 21 are “vague” and “ambiguous” without elaboration, and that both Requests were “overly broad” because, the Bondholders now assert, the Requests seek every document concerning ERS Bonds. Exhibit 5 at 2 [1/3/20 Letter from M. Papez to Counsel of Record]. The Bondholders also reiterated they would only produce documents that “touch on the Ultra Vires issues,” stating that would include documents “regarding the validity (or invalidity) of the bonds, the legality of their issuance, allegations about the validity or legality of the Bonds, and any other issues related to the claims in the Ultra Vires Proceedings.” Id.

LEGAL STANDARD

20. Discovery under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure intentionally “casts a wide net” and “alter[s] the adversarial nature of litigation to remove the elements of surprise and gamesmanship to make trial a transparent, fair process.” Skytec, Inc. v. Logistic Sys., Civ. No. 15-2104-BJM, 2018 WL 4372726, at *5 (D.P.R. Sept. 12, 2018). Discovery, therefore, properly extends to “any nonprivileged matter that is relevant to any party’s claim or defense [that is] proportional to the needs of the case.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b). A party’s failure or refusal to produce such information may be remedied, upon a showing of good cause, by a court order compelling such disclosure. Diaz-Garcia v. Surillo-Ruiz, 45 F. Supp. 3d 163, 166 (D.P.R. 2014). Further, the party resisting a request for production bears the burden of establishing the lack of relevancy or undue burden of the request. Autoridad de Carreteras y Transportacion v. Transcore Atlanic, Inc., 319 F.R.D. 422, 427 (D.P.R. 2016).

ARGUMENT

I. Bondholders Should Be Compelled to Provide Documents Responsive to Requests for Production 19 and 21.

21. These Requests seek information showing what the Bondholders knew or believed at the time they purchased or acquired the ERS Bonds—specifically here, documents the ERS Bondholders used and had in their possession, custody, and control at the time they acquired or disposed of ERS Bonds (Request No. 19), and documents relating to ERS Bonds the ERS Bondholders knew of or had in their possession at the time they, or their advisors, performed any evaluation or analysis of the ERS Bonds (Request No. 21). Among other things, such documents would include investment committee memoranda, along with supporting documents and analysis, used by the respective Bondholder principals to decide whether to purchase ERS Bonds (including a decision not to purchase such bonds).

22. Movants seek this discovery because the Bondholders intend to assert a “notice” defense in the event the Court agrees the ERS Bonds were issued ultra vires and are invalid. See ECF No. 688 in Case No. 17-bk-03566 at 33. The Bondholders agree the discovery Movants seek is relevant to the notice issues they raised. Exhibit 4 at 2 (recounting Bondholders’ counsel’s statement that what Bondholders knew or believed at the time they purchased or acquired ERS Bonds is relevant to notice issues Bondholders raised); cf. Exhibit 5 (neither disputing the statement of Bondholders’ counsel, nor once using the word “notice”).

23. The Bondholders have agreed to produce documents responsive to these Requests that hit on agreed-upon search terms (Exhibit 4 at 2)<sup>6</sup> and certain categories of documents regardless of whether they hit on search terms (e.g., “diligence files”)—but their agreement comes with a catch. Specifically, the Bondholders say they will only produce documents concerning their purchase or acquisition of ERS Bonds that “touch upon ultra vires issues.”

24. The Court should overrule the Bondholders’ proposed limitation. This litigation concerns ultra vires issues; either the proposed limitation is meaningless, or it is meaningful in a way that the Bondholders have not disclosed. Despite two conferences on this issue, Movants do not understand what this limitation means and whether the Bondholders will produce everything they had at the time of their purchase decisions even if such documents do not explicitly discuss the legality of the bonds.

25. The Bondholders' reliance on a notice defense necessarily requires examining whatever they knew at the time of purchase or acquisition—without exclusion of what the Bondholders unilaterally decide is not relevant to their notice defense. For example, if the Bondholders have internal communications confirming that they analyzed the ERS Enabling Act but failed to analyze the legality of the bonds, such documents should be produced even if there are no explicit discussions of “ultra vires issues.” Even the absence of discussion about the legality of the bonds could undermine the Bondholders’ notice defense and establish that the particular Bondholders in this litigation failed to undertake the necessary analysis of the bonds’ legality at the time of their purchases. Alternatively, the Bondholders should agree that the interpretation of the ERS Enabling Act is a legal issue and there is no viable “notice” defense here.

26. The Bondholders may claim they have addressed Movants’ concerns because they have agreed to produce “documents that touch on the issues in the Ultra Vires Proceeding,” Exhibit 5 at 3, but the careful wording of that contention attempts to mask the relevant notice materials the Bondholders intend to withhold. As noted above, even documents that do not mention or discuss the validity of the ERS Bonds are relevant to the notice issues the Bondholders themselves have raised. The Bondholders’ careful phrasing of what they intend to produce—always in terms of what the Bondholders affirmatively or explicitly discussed in their documents and communications concerning the validity of ERS Bonds—excludes documents that do not affirmatively or explicitly discuss the validity of the ERS Bonds, even though such documents are highly relevant to the notice issues the Bondholders themselves raised (and are responsive to the Requests as written).

Further, the documents and information the Bondholders had in their possession at the time of purchase or acquisition concerning the ERS Bonds—particularly if they failed to review and consider such information—are likewise relevant to the Bondholders' notice issues.

27. To the extent the Bondholders may claim these documents showing analysis and decision-making criteria for their clients are particularly sensitive and should not be disclosed, the argument fails for at least two reasons. First, the Bondholders put these documents at issue by relying on a notice defense. Second, the Bondholders have proposed (and the parties are near agreement on) a confidentiality stipulation and order for these Actions that in their judgment provided sufficient protections for their clients' sensitive documents.

28. The Court should therefore overrule the Bondholders' proposed limitation that documents are responsive to these Requests only if they "touch upon ultra vires issues," and compel production of documents and communications responsive to these Requests.

RELIEF REQUESTED

29. The Government Parties and the Committees hereby request, pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy 7026, 7034, and 9014, made applicable to this contested matter through section 310 of PROMESA, and this Court's inherent authority, that this Court compel Bondholders to produce documents responsive to Requests for Production 19 and 21.

30. WHEREFORE the Government Parties and Committees respectfully request that this Court (i) enter the Proposed Order attached hereto as Exhibit A granting the relief requested herein, and (ii) grant the Government Parties and the Committees such other relief as is just.

Certification of Compliance with Local Rule 9013-1 and the Tenth Amended Case Management Procedures

Pursuant to Local Rule 9013-1 and ¶ I.H of the Tenth Amended Case Management Order, the Government Parties and the Committees hereby certify that they have (a) carefully examined the matter and concluded that there is a true need for an urgent hearing; (b) not created the urgency through any lack of due diligence; (c) made a bona fide effort to resolve the matter without a hearing; (d) made reasonable, good-faith communications in an effort to resolve or narrow the issues that are being brought to the Court; and (e) contacted counsel for Bondholders, who have rejected or failed to respond to the Government Parties' and Committees' requests.
